

Good day!! It's been 2 months since I left Japan.

I got to celebrate Halloween such as decorating my house, carving a pumpkin, as well as wearing a costume. In one of these events, I went to the pumpkin patch, a popular festivity in Canada with my host siblings and my friends. It's made up of a huge farm full of pumpkins, a big corn maze and a haunted house. First, we went to the farm riding the hay carriage and we toured through the pumpkin patch, once we arrived the end of pumpkin patch, we followed multiple forest trails and found a campfire with free marshmallows, hot chocolate and cookies. It was cold outside, so the hot chocolate warmed me up. After that, we had shot pumpkins with a pumpkin canon. Of course, I had never used a canon in my life. However, I was able to launch the pumpkin very far, about 30 feet, I was very surprised that I could do that. The sound was so loud that I had to put on an ear cover.

They had a haunted house too. I don't like scary things, but my friends liked them. The haunted house was pretty scary, because it had creepy dolls, scary facemasks and moving animatronics. I had been holding my friend's arm until we escaped the house. If I had been in the haunted house alone, I would have passed out.

By the way, I love eating food so my host sister and I made pumpkin cake with pumpkin spice and cream cheese. We tried to paint pumpkin face, but it was too difficult to paint it well. It tasted good though. I put a picture of it below, so you can see it.

I'm sad to finish Halloween celebration because it was very fun. But I'm so excited for Christmas, too. Some houses had already decorated their house, also I hear Christmas songs in my car. I'm ready to celebrate it!

As you know, I have been living Canada for 2 months. My English listening ability is improving, but it's hard to speak fluently in English because I won't be able to speak fluent English even if I understand 90%, I have to understand 100%. To be able to speak fluent English, I'd like to study English using app and practice speaking. When I do my homework, there's always many difficult words. If I can't understand these words, I tried to search the internet for it and ask my host family. (My host sister is helping me to write this diary) I will be like a native speaker when I write this report!!

Thank you for reading my report, see you next time guys
