

Hello! Today, I would like to share my life in the U.S. There are many differences between life in Japan and life in America, and I would be glad if you are interested in hearing about my experiences here.

Lakes are freezing

January is the coldest month in Michigan, with temperatures dropping as low as -20 degrees. Schools are often closed due to the severe cold. As a result, many lakes freeze over. Some people take advantage of the ice by fishing or playing ice hockey. The view from the bridge during this season is truly breathtaking.

Pizza party

I had a pizza party at my strength and conditioning class. It was a reward from my teacher for getting through my exam this month. I ended up eating two pizzas! They were huge, and I felt full afterward. There was a rectangle pizza, which I loved even more than the usual round ones. It was a fun way to celebrate!

Birthday Party

I participated in my host mother's niece's birthday party. There were a lot of people I hadn't met before, so I was nervous. However, they were kind, and the food was delicious (Haitian food). I especially loved the potato salad. The color was purple, but it tasted delicious. It was a grateful experience for me.

Mice

I had mice from my zoology class. After completing an experiment with them, I took the mice home. They are so cute! My friends said they are scared because they have red eyes, but my host family loves the mice. I'm really interested in feeding them.
