

Hello. It's already February. The first part of February, it snowed a lot outside, we got over thirty centimeters of snow. We enjoyed playing outside and taking great pictures with snow. I was so happy because it was first time that Canada had snow. But snow stayed over 2 weeks, and I was so scared to fall due to snow. So, I don't want any more snow.

By the way I could challenge myself with some activities in February. I tried to join a dance battle competition. I'm not good enough so I lost in the first round. But it was so fun. Also, I tried to snowboard again. I got better although I was still not good enough.

I want to try more activities in Canada next month, too. And I have some assignments that I have to do, so I will try doing something in my free time.
