

Hello! Today, I would like to share my experiences living in the U.S. There are many differences between life in Japan and life in America, and I would be glad if you are interested in hearing my experiences here.

Water-coloring

This semester, I took a water coloring class, and I can confidently say it's the best art class I have ever taken. While I have previously taken several drawing classes, including Drawing 1 and jewelry making, this class stands out. For one of my projects, I drew a set of oranges. I struggled with illustrating the peeled orange, but I believe the other oranges turned out to be both realistic and beautiful.

Senior night

Senior night is one of the events for seniors who are going to graduate this year. We made posters and gave some presents to them. However, since I am an exchange student and I am not going to be here as well, my teammates prepared a present for me. Thank you, guys!

Detroit Zoo

I went to the Detroit Zoo as a field trip for my water coloring class. I met many animals, and they were so cute! My favorite were definitely the penguins. Just look at how adorable they are! The cutest moment must be when they walk; it always makes me smile.

Cherry blossom

The spring season has started, but it's still quite cold here. Sometimes the temperature drops below 0 degrees. So, I've mostly been dressing for winter. However, flowers have started to bloom, including cherry blossoms! I didn't know there were cherry blossoms in this country, so I was really surprised. They look exactly like the ones in Japan!
