

<Cairns's trip>

I joined an international camp during this holiday. We went to Cairns, which is in north of Australia. 30 international students joined this camp but actually, 26 of us were from Germany. However, I could make new friends, which was good!!

We went to the Great Barrier Reef and snorkeled. It was my first time, but it was really fun, and coral reef was beautiful. I was so amazed to see coral reefs and fish just below the surface of the ocean. We also visited Kuranda village, which is a small historical village in rainforest. I tried sugar cane juice there because sugar cane is famous crop in Cairns. That was really sweet.

We also visited a couple of waterfalls and lake. Cairns was full of tropical rainforests, and I really felt the power of nature.

The trip was only 5 days, but it became wonderful experience for me.

Now, we have a baby goat inside of my host family's house because the mother goat had two babies, but she rejected one of them. So, we're feeding him milk and playing with him until he becomes big enough to live on his own. My host mum said that sometimes these things happen with animals.

The baby goat is super cute. He loves sucking on everything.

I had never seen baby goats before coming to Australia, so this has been a wonderful experience to see animals up close and getting to know their behavior.
