

Hello everyone. In Australia, term 1 has finished. The two-week break between terms is over, and I'm enjoying Term 2 that it's started. I've gotten used to live here. In beginning of April, almost of all subjects have test or big assessment (like homework). It was a lot of work to get those things done, but I was able to finish them properly. I take advanced science class, and I thought the test was quite difficult. However, just like in Japan, I was able to prepare for the test by studying diligently beforehand.

After finishing all those tests and assignments, it's finally time for holiday. In middle of April, I went camping with my family. My family is Indonesian, so it was like a lot of other Indonesian families were coming to that camp. Of course, I can't speak Indonesian, so I hung out with my Brazilian friend who was also an international student. Also, the children couldn't speak Indonesian, I made friends with people around my age, and we hung out with them. I had a great time.

I went to many other places as well. I went to Victor Harbor, which is quite south of Adelaide. It has beaches and islands, and since it faces the southernmost tip of Australia, if you crossed the ocean from there, you'd reach Antarctica. I found it very strange because Japan only has the Sea of Japan or the Pacific Ocean.

In the end of the holiday, I went to an outlet mall with a friend. Recently, winter has been arriving in Australia. So, I bought my winter clothes there. In the evening, we went to a not famous beach called West Beach. There were hardly any people around, so it was incredibly beautiful.

Now the holidays are over and school has started again. There are still many things I need to do, so I'll try to make progress little by little. My friend says that basketball games will really start this term, so I'm going to do my best in that game. Thanks for reading!
