

Tachikoku English Education Program

- TOKYO EXPERIENCE SCHOOL Program (17 students from Australia & Canada)
- Story telling in English to elementary school students
- Support for students applying to overseas universities
- The Program for the Development of Next-Generation Leaders
- The National University of Singapore (NUS) Trial Program
- The English Presentation Day (1st~3rd Graders)
- Dispatch of Tokyo high school students to Paris as part of Olympic & Paralympic education

Students' Voice

The Program for the Development of Next-Generation Leaders

I applied to this program to learn about different cultures and share my own culture. I learned that when we face cultural difference problems, we should try to express ourselves clearly and listen carefully to others so that we can find good solutions. I think communication works when we talk about cultures and share opinions.
(5-B)

Tobitate! (Leap for Tomorrow) Study Abroad Initiative

I went to Tanzania to take part in a volunteer program called "Child Care". I went to Maasai School and helped teachers as a volunteer. The children had two classes every day to learn math, English and Swahili. However, there was not enough stationery and the level of poverty was more serious than I had expected. I need to think more about not only education but also problems related to poverty. (5-A)

TOKYO EXPERIENCE SCHOOL

After three years of the Covid-19 pandemic, this was the first time in four years that I had the opportunity to talk to students of my own age from around the world. I talked to a girl from Canada about our favorite things. We both liked Taylor Swift and had fun sharing our favorite lyrics. On the other hand, I felt some differences that we had. For example, our thoughts on school work and tests were different and that was because our educational systems are not the same. I was very glad after the program because I realized that even though we live on opposite sides of the planet, we have a lot of things in common. (5-C)

